Urology Oncology Center

Urological cancers are common, especially the most frequently encountered prostate cancer, urothelial cancer (including renal pelvis, ureter and bladder cancer) and kidney cancer. They are usually difficult to detect in the early stage. When the patients demonstrate cancer-related symptoms, it may be at an advanced stage or even metastasize. Urinary cancers have a high cure rate if treated early. With the advancement of science and technology, many new treatment strategies can be applied even if the diagnosis is not in the early stage.

According to the Ministry of Health and Welfare, the incidence of urinary cancer is increasing. In order to improve the quality of treatment, Taipei Veterans General Hospital established the "Urological Oncology Treatment and Research Center", combining experts from the hospital's interdisciplinary fields, including the Department of Urology, Department of Oncology, Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine, Department of Radiology, Department of Heavy Ions and Radiation Oncology, Department of Nuclear Medicine, and Department of Pharmacy, combined with individual oncology nursing specialists to provide the most comprehensive holistic medical services. The scope of services ranges from abnormal physical examination reports, suspected diagnosis, confirmed diagnosis, second opinion consultation, treatment tracking, and even tumor recurrence treatment planning, constructing the most advanced comprehensive diagnosis and treatment service platform for urinary system tumors.
